FACT SHEET:

INDIANA HIGH SCHOOLS PARTICIPATING IN THE “APTIP-IN” PROGRAM

The Advanced Placement Training and Incentive Program for Indiana (AP-TIP IN) was inaugurated in academic year 2012-2013, with a first cohort of nine public high schools around the state participating. During 2013-2014, a second cohort of eleven high schools will be added.

Joining the program in school year 2013-2014:

Ben Davis High School – Marion County, IN
Crawford County High School – Marengo, IN
Gavit High School – Hammond, IN
Hammond High School – Hammond, IN
Kokomo High School – Kokomo, IN
Lake Central High School – St. John, IN
Lawrence Central High School – Lawrence Township, Indianapolis
Lawrence North High School – Lawrence Township, Indianapolis
Richmond High School – Richmond, IN Westfield High School – Westfield, IN
Whiteland High School – Whiteland, IN

The original participants:

Concord High School – Elkhart, IN
Elkhart Central High School – Elkhart, IN
Elkhart Memorial High School – Elkhart, IN
Jeffersonville High School – Clark County, IN Mississinewa High School – Gas City, IN
Perry Meridian High School – Indianapolis, IN
Pike High School – Indianapolis, IN
Southport High School – Indianapolis, IN Speedway High school – Indianapolis, IN

For more information about AP-TIP IN:

The AP-TIP IN program is an initiative to increase college- and career-readiness in the STEM disciplines in Indiana high schools through advanced training and incentives for teachers and students geared to the College Board Advanced Placement ® tests in select subjects.

The five-year program, led by the Indiana Department of Education and administered by the University of Notre Dame’s Institute for Educational Initiatives, is made possible by a grant provided through the non-profit National Math and Science Initiative. A third cohort of schools will join the initiative in 2014-2015.

Educators, contact Kat Lubker at klubker@nd.edu. Media, contact Bill Schmitt at wschmitt@nd.edu.