

Where will Education, Schooling, & Society (ESS) lead you?

EVERYWHERE

“The real purpose of education is to prepare the orientation for future generations, who will progress to a new plane.”

- Maria Montessori, The 1946 London Lectures

“Education is not the filling of a pot but the lighting of a fire.”

- Often attributed to W.B. Yeats, Plato, and Plutarch

A start to how you might think about fields and services you might do as an ESS Major or Minor
As all of these fields require the kind of critical thinking, problem solving, analysis, communication skills, and organizational skills that you'll learn and practice in a major or minor in Education, Schooling, & Society

Check out this very partial listing...

Teaching

Serving on a school board (often elected positions)

Working on your local community school or parish school curriculum in an area where you have great passion

Educational Policy

Law

Guidance Counselors

Career Counselors

Library, Media, and Information Science Specialists

Human Resource Officer / Trainer

Language Teachers in other nations

Marketing

Admissions Officers and Admissions Counselors

Curriculum Developers

Student Affairs Professionals

Title IX Officers (K-20)

Educational Reporting

Lobbyist

Governmental Affairs officers (local, state, and federal levels)

Hospice Educator

Social Worker

Parent/Partner/Friend

Educational Talent Scout (See Carney Sandoe for an example)

Director of an Independent Schools Network (See <https://www.nais.org/about/>) for some examples

Educational Researcher

Trauma Teaching and Reprogramming

Museum Educator or Educational Specialist

Home School Curriculum Writer

Children's Hospital Educator (Educating children and families about procedures)

Thanks for some of these items to the Notre Dame Career Services Center to see more of their ideas go to: <https://undergradcareers.nd.edu/career-paths/education-nonprofit-and-social-services/education/>

To learn more, contact any ESS Faculty member or the Department Chair Dr. Andrea Christensen

Click here to return to reading about ESS at ND!